

Dr. Syed Aneel Ahmad Gilani

Dr. Gilani has completed his PhD from Department of Plant Sciences Quaid-i-Azam University Islamabad and part of PhD research from Department of Plants Sciences University of California Davis USA in plant taxonomy and molecular Phylogenetics. He is currently working as Curator (BS-19) Botanical Sciences Division at Pakistan Museum of Natural History Islamabad for the last 16 years. He has the responsibilities of the managements and curation of the herbarium collections. He is involved in the vegetation studies and collections of the floral diversity all over the country. He has been involved in the National and International expeditions, baselinestudies of the floral diversity, Ethno-botanical surveys and ecological & environment assessment studies of the floral diversity throughout the country. He has worked as botanist and vegetation expert in the important projects i.e. "Pakistan Wetlands Program", "Sustainable Forest Management Project", "Indus for All Project", "WWF Ethnobotany Project Ayubia National Park" and "Merged areas of Khyber Pakhtunkhwa 10BTTP Project". He has produced important publications in the National and International science Journals. He has been involved in the guidance and supervision of MSC, M.Phil and PhD students from all over the country.